The position offers project-learning,-handling,-reporting and a part of establishing the state-of-the-art cell biology technologies applied to a wide variety of ornamental crops in a competitive and dynamic environment. The reporting line is directed to the Laboratory Manager.

YOUR TASKS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

- Efficient and timely execution of project activities, detailed data recording, data analysis and data presentations,
- Timely communication of all project activities to all involved stakeholders,
- Assistance with protocol writing and project reporting,
- Provision of guidance to project trainees and lab workers,
- Provision of support to the Laboratory Manager with project planning, organization and management of cell biology projects.

YOUR PROFILE

- MSc or PhD degree in Life Sciences, preferably in Cell Biology and Tissue Culture,
- Minimum of two years of proven work experience (Academic or Corporate sector) – preferably related to Cell Biology and Tissue Culture topics,
- Good command of English, both verbal and written; knowing Dutch language is a plus,
- Proficient computer skills in MS Office applications, particularly with Excel,
- Analytical mindset, multitasking capacities, excellent interpersonal and communication skills and team player facilitating cross-functional collaboration,
- Drive for improvements and motivated by dynamic organizational surrounds.

WE OFFER
